

As Seen On
BarNoneDrinks.com
May 30, 2011

Liquid Gift giving for Father's Day

Show dad you've actually been listening to him all these years and give him something he'll remember. Something he will appreciate for months to come. Who knows--he might even share some with you (if you're of legal drinking age). The ideal Father's Day gift is a fine bottle of single malt Scotch whisky, gin, rum or Cognac. Read on for how to match your dad with the proper drink...

If your dad loves gin and tonic - CITADELLE GIN

'tis the season for G&Ts and nothing says you care about G&Ts more than a bottle of Citadelle Gin. Made with 19 botanicals in Cognac, France, this gin needs nothing more than a little Fever-Tree or Q Tonic, ice and a few limes to put dad in a summer frame of mind. And if your dad is the adventurous type, try CITADELLE GIN RESERVE for a twist - it's aged in old Cognac casks for 6 months and makes a killer classic martini with a lemon twist ($25 for Citadelle, $40 for Citadelle Reserve)

Online at: <http://www.barnonedrinks.com/press/2011/liquid-gift-giving.html>